

LANGFORD BESTS JOE JEANNETTE

Hot Ten-Round Battle Furnished by Colored Men Before New York Audience.

FINAL SESSION IS FAST

Sam's Short Jabs Count, but Opponent Resorts to Footwork in Escaping Harm.

New York, Sept. 6.—In a ten round glove fight that bristled with science and hard hitting, Sam Langford, the Boston tar baby, outpointed Joe Jeannette of Union Hill, N.

J., by a small margin, in a ten round bout last night. Langford's harder punching enabled him to carry off the honors, such as they were, but Jeannette gave a splendid exhibition of skill. From the first tap of the gong the battle was sensational. No love was lost and the men fought desperately for supremacy. It was not until the 10th round that Langford did enough effective punching to assert himself, and when the gong ended the encounter Jeannette was visibly worried and tired.

LANGFORD USES SHORT HOOKS. Langford depended entirely on short hooks at close quarters. It was difficult to follow this plan of attack for the reason that Jeannette employed rapid footwork as much as possible. He always was in motion, taking care to keep away from the tar baby's blows and at the same time scoring many points with rapid

CATHOLIC TEAMS IN A VERY CLOSE RACE

Prospects Are That It Will Take the Last Game to Decide Winner of the Pennant.

Interest in the Western Catholic Union race is growing with each successive series of games and the standing of the two leading teams is so close, that the pennant winner will probably pass out a victory on the last Sunday's play in the league, when St. James' team of Rock Island and the St. Paul team of Davenport will meet. One whole game separates the two teams, now. Last Sunday, St. James defeated Sacred Heart of Davenport, and St. Pious defeated St. Joseph, Monday St. Pious forfeited to St. James, St. Paul of Davenport defeated St. John of Rock Island and St. Joseph defeated Sacred Heart. The standing of the league is as follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.
St. James	13	4	.824
St. Paul	12	5	.705
St. John	10	7	.589
Sacred Heart	8	9	.470
St. Pious	6	11	.353
St. Joseph	3	14	.176

left hand jabs that finally closed Langford's left eye.

Whenever Jeannette stood up for exchanges it was clearly evident who was the master, for Langford out-punched him with wonderful strength. But Jeannette knew this better than anybody and preferred to box at long range rather than take desperate chances in mixups.

STORY OF FIGHT BY ROUNDS. First round—They went to close quarters with short arm blows with honors even. Jeannette slipped to the floor but was up at once. A light left hook sent Jeannette to the mat for a second time. Langford worried him to the end of the round. Langford's round.

Second round—After a few rapid exchanges Jeannette sent Langford down for a count of two with a left and right to the face. Jeannette forced matters and landed five straight lefts and rights. Langford countering with body blows at close range. This was Jeannette's round.

Third round—Langford kept rushing, but Jeannette's rapid footwork bothered the Boston man. Sam sent left and right to the face with Jeannette breaking ground. At long range there were several wicked exchanges but Langford's deadly left hooks to neck and body gave him the round.

Fourth round—Langford forced Joe around the ring but missed half a dozen swings and hooks. After a rapid exchange of body blows Langford hooked his left to the jaw and Jeannette went down for the count of eight. He stalled until the bell rang. Langford's round.

Fifth round—Langford was the aggressor, playing for the body with Jeannette vainly trying backhand swings. Langford had the better of the infighting and had the round easily on points.

Seventh round—Langford with left and right forced Jeannette into a neutral corner. Jeannette broke ground and made Langford miss several swings. They exchanged several heavy lefts and rights to the head. Jeannette stood up and out-fought Langford. Jeannette's round.

Eighth round—Jeannette led landing two lefts on head. Langford sent hard left to body, but missed two swings for head. At close quarters Langford got to the body heavily, but was beaten off again by left and right to head. Jeannette's round.

Ninth round—Langford forced the pace but Jeannette put a couple of stiff lefts to the face. Langford jarred Joe with a hard left to head. Langford's round.

Tenth round—Langford rushed like a demon trying hard for a knockout. He forced the pace and sent Jeannette down for a count of three with a left smash on the jaw. Langford took a couple of hard punches in the wind, but sent back left and right with fierce force. He out-fought Jeannette to the end and had the round and fight.

AMERICA HOLDS THE CUP

Dixie IV. Repeats Opening Victory at Huntington, L. I.

Huntington, L. I., Sept. 6.—America won the international motorboat races and retained possession of the Harmsworth trophy yesterday afternoon when Dixie IV. defeated the British challenger, Pioneer, in the second race of the series.

The decisive lead secured by the American boat was gained during the second round of the course when the British boat, Pioneer, broke down. The Dixie at once forged ahead, gaining a lead of four miles. The crew of Pioneer made hasty repairs, however, and to the surprise of all the British boat again took up the race. By this time, however, the result was not in doubt. The American, Disturber II., owned by James Pugh of Chicago, was second, and Viva was third. Pioneer finished last, two and a quarter miles astern of Dixie IV. The winner, during the latter part of the race, slowed down, and could easily have won by a greater margin. Dixie IV. covered the course of 30 miles in about 40 minutes, official time.

The last heard of the members of Jeffries' party was when they were hunting on Kelley river, near Koniak village.

"THE GODDESS OF LIBERTY."

The musical comedy, "The Goddess of Liberty," to be presented at the Illinois this evening, was played matinee and night Monday at the Burtis in Davenport. The dramatic reviewer of the Davenport Democrat said in his paper:

"Action and the evidences of good stage management helped to make 'The Goddess of Liberty,' which played to a good house at the Burtis yesterday day afternoon and evening, a decided hit. Mrs. Lida Coffey-Kane, the Davenport woman appearing in one of the principal parts, received a full round of applause on making her entrance and pleased all by her interpretation of the part of Mrs. Horace Butterworth, the rich mother in search of a titled son-in-law. Al Rauh, as Lord Jack Wyngate, and Miss Grace Kennicott, as Phyllis Crane, carried off the roles of principals in excellent style. The comedy was furnished by Bill the bar-keep, and Lord Jack's tailor, who brought a laugh at every appearance, and in the song, "Tummy, Tummy Tum," were encored repeatedly."

"THE GIRL I LOVE."

For the first time in this country a genuine bit of the famous English style of entertainment known as "extravaganza-pantomime" is being presented to the theatregoers of this country as a feature of "The Girl I Love," the merriest of the La Salle opera house successes which will be seen at the Illinois next Sunday. Pantomime entertainments are particularly popular in England during the Christmas holiday period and are the delight of both grown-ups and children. When Manager Harry Askin decided to introduce 15 minutes of this peculiar and exciting entertainment into the performance of "The Girl I Love" experts declared that it would never go on this side of the water regardless of its popularity in the British Isles. It was too fanciful, too picturesque, too elusive, they argued, for audiences long accustomed to slap-stick musical comedies that are barren of all imaginative delights. Mr. Askin, however, turned a deaf ear to such suggestions. Suffice it to say that after tireless effort and exhaustive study, Mr. Askin succeeded in getting a pantomime scene into just the shape he wanted it, and it was used as the opening feature of the second act of "The Girl I Love." From the very first night this novelty registered a distinct success, and it is one of the most applauded scenes in the performance. The scene illustrates the joys and innocent pranks that gladden the festive hours of Halloween when young hearts thrill with merry excitement and old hearts become young for the nonce. In the course of the action, all the delightful games and revels sacred to the evening are introduced to an array of beautiful costumes and effective lighting schemes.

"THE BOSS" IN CHICAGO.

The characters made known in "The Boss," the new play by Edward Sheldon, author of "Salvation Nell" and "The Nigger," which Holbrook Blinn and his admirable company are now presenting at the Garrick theatre, Chicago, are such as one meets every day not only in the big city but in the small town. There is Michael Regan, the role played by Mr. Blinn, who will be readily recognized as a type that has become common in American cities in recent years—a man who by mingled force of character and not over-accomplished ways, has succeeded in making himself a financial power as well as a leader in the community where he lives. There is James D. Griswold of Griswold & Co., business rival of Regan, whose daughter, Regan, with the aggressiveness peculiar to his type, insists on marrying. There is Emily Griswold, who sacrifices herself, as she believes, to save her father's fortune from disaster. There is Donald Griswold, socialist reformer, with a violent antipathy toward Regan, who leads a strike against "the boss," which ultimately leads to the latter's downfall. There is Archbishop O'Connor, a singularly interesting character, whose efforts are directed toward bringing Regan and his striking employees together, though without success; and there is a long list of other easily-recognized, familiar characters including several representatives of "the boss" in the district which he dominates. All these characters are drawn with a remarkable knowledge of human nature and with a fidelity to truth that is often startling. The scene of the play is one of the eastern lake ports, and the time is the present, so that the play is up-to-date. Mr. Blinn's work as Regan is said to be one of the most striking characterizations seen upon the stage in recent years, and it maintains his reputation as one of the cleverest players of character parts in the United States.
